REASONS FOR ALLOWANCE

The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance: claims 1-18 are allowed over the prior art of record because the prior art of record, considered alone or in combination, fails to suggest or fairly teach a method for controlling a stepping motor in an optical storage system, which comprises a pick-up head for achieving a short seek, the method comprising a combination of the following steps: calculating a number of steps that the stepping motor should rotate; and moving the pick-up head toward a target position by having the stepping motor rotate according to the number of steps; determining a shift distance between the objective lens and the center of the pick-up head; and controlling movement of the pick-up head according to the shift distance, as recited in claim 1; or a method of achieving a short seek in an optical storage system, the optical system having a stepping motor, a pick-up head, and an object lens, including a combination of step (a) through step (d) as particularly recited in claim 7, lines 4-12; or optical storage system comprising a combination of: a stepping motor electrically connected to a sled for driving the sled to move a pick-up head, wherein the stepping motor stops the sled and the pick-up head when a shift distance corresponding to a distance between the pick-up head and an objective lens is lower than a predetermined range, and a control module electrically connected to the stepping motor, the pick-up head, and the object lens for controlling operations of the stepping motor, the pick-up head, the object lens, determining the shift distance and the predetermined range, as recited in claim 13; or an optical storage system including a combination of: stepping motor, electrically connected to a sled, for driving the sled to move a pick-up head if a shift distance corresponding to a distance between the pick-up head and an object lens is greater than a predetermined range and the object lens has not reached a target position, and stopping the sled and the pick-up head when the shift distance is lower than the predetermined range and the object lens has not reached the target position; and a control module electrically connected to the stepping motor, the pick-up head, and the object lens for calculating a number of steps that the stepping motor should rotate and controlling operations of the stepping motor, the pick-up head, the object lens and determining the shift distance and the predetermined range, as recited in claim 17; or a method for controlling a stepping motor in an optical storage system, including a combination of: calculating a number of steps that the stepping motor should rotate; moving a pick-up head toward a target position by having the stepping motor rotate according to the number of steps; moving an object lens toward a target track; comparing a shift distance corresponding to a distance between the pick-up head and the object lens with a predetermined shift range; stopping utilizing the stepping motor to move the pick-up head if the shift distance is lower than the predetermined shift range while the object lens has not reached the target track; and utilizing the stepping motor to move the pick-up head if the shift distance is greater than the predetermined shift range while the object lens has not reached the target track, as recited in claim 18. Claims 2-6, 8-12, 14-6 are allowed with their respective parent claim.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."

CITED REFERENCES

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. The cited references relate to an optical apparatus having a sled rotated by a stepping motor to move an optical head to a target track on an optical disk, where the sled or the optical head is controlled based on calculated number of steps of the motor and/or a shifted distance of an objective lens provided in the optical head.
